KWords For Thought

“Train your mind to see in all people that which they do not see in themselves. The only difference in people is appearance and results - we all have the same potential!”

Product Knowledge – Did You Know?

What's All The Buzz?

There's more benefit to those bees than just their sweet honey – many scientists have been studying the effects of bees' pollen for years. A famed Russian scientist, biologist and experimental botanist named Dr. Nocolai Tsitsin, conducted one such study.

Dr. Tsitsin sent letters to 200 people claiming to be over 100 years old, with the request to answer the following three questions: what was their age?; how had they earned their living most of their lives?; and what had been their principle food?.

Dr. Tsitsin received 150 replies to his 200 letters. He made a very interesting discovery. The answers showed that a large number of them were beekeepers. And all of them, without exception, said that their principle food had always been honey!

He furthered his study to discover that in each case, it wasn't really honey these people ate, but the waste matter in the bottom of the honey containers. Because most beekeepers were poor, they sold all the pure honey on the market, keeping only the “dirty residue” of the honey for themselves.

After a series of tests, Dr. Tsitsin discovered that the “dirty residue” of the honey was not dirt at all, but almost pure pollen, which falls off the bees' legs while they deposit their honey.

Pollen may be so effective on age due to the fact that pollen contains all known water-soluble vitamins, including B12, a rich supply of minerals, trace elements, and enzymes. Pollen also contains a gonadotropic hormone, a plant hormone that is similar to the pituitary hormone, gonadotropin, which stimulates sex glands.

Interested in living longer and the benefits of bee pollen? Besides getting pollen from natural, unprocessed honey, you can also take pollen supplements. Neways offers Bee Pollen as part of our Nature's ScienCeuticals line (#2702, $10.50).

New Bantering Statues Business System

As you may have heard, Margie Aliprandi has available to her downline distributors a new alternative “You + 1” system. This system is based on the same principals as the 4096 Club and is offered as an alternative.

The system works using post card recruiting. After receiving the postcard, interested parties call an 800 number mailbox with a prerecorded message. After leaving their name and address, they are sent a sample of a competitor's product (toothpaste), a Rub A Dub, Dub brochure, a very unique and creative audio tape recorded by Margie, Allison Hague, Rick Duncan and Bob Bridges and some other clarifying information.

The tape explains Network Marketing in a very basic and low key manner without any hype. There are no big claims of unrealistic money and becoming independently wealthy in an unreasonable amount of time. The system is designed for like-minded people who are willing to consistently work a business that will work for them.

The system has unique, catchy advertising, a great training book, is less expensive than Kurt's system to mail but does not allow for up-front money return.

Karl and I received our startup materials and post cards and will be doing our first mailing this week. The system looks to be a little more automated than our current system. And for those of you that are looking for an alternative or additional system, we would highly recommend you to take a look.

If you are interested in getting the information yourself, go to Margie's website, CrownDiamond.net and fill out a request for information form. If you do not have internet access, just call us or your immediate upline for assistance. We'll let everyone know how our results pan out with the system.

Another Good Reason to Work Towards a Successful Neways Business?

It is predicted that by 2025, there will be 34,971,000 women over 65 years old. And if the statistics are correct, far too many will be alone, dirt poor, and a looming national disaster. Here's why:

As of 2000, the average life expectancy of the American woman is seven years longer than the American mans'.

Women have continued to work for lower salaries and at smaller companies. Many without pension plans, or with less generous plans than men.

Statistics on the savings patterns of all Americans is dire but even worse for women. They save approximately $3,000 per year, or 1/2 of the average man's $7,800.

Although there is Social Security, many people seriously question whether Social Security will be available in the coming decades.

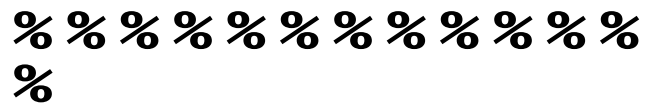

Long-term care (nursing home care) in America costs about $200 per day. By 2025, projections point to close to $700 per day, conservatively.

According to the General Accounting Office, 80% of widows now in poverty were not poor before their husbands died. The average age of widows in America is 55.
